

CERES ♀

♍ in Virgo

HOW DO YOU RELATE TO YOUR BODY?

Grooming and being well put together is important to you. Physical cleanliness matters a lot.

You are drawn to the process and attainment of bodily perfection. This means you are also sensitive to your body's flaws.

You enjoy the grounding that physical habits and routines provide.

HOW DO YOU TAKE PHYSICAL CARE OF YOURSELF AND OTHERS?

You instill and practice good habits for health, cleanliness and tidiness. For you, recycling is a way to reduce your footprint and be a good world citizen.

People who smell strongly offend you; it's as if they're taking up more than their allotted space with their scent.

You possess the attributes that are ideal for nursing and similar professions and need to remember that it is important to comfort and nourish yourself the way you do for others.

Your core physical need is: To live in a clean and tidy environment that responds well to your small but constant grooming activities.

HOW DO YOU NEED TO EAT AND NOURISH YOURSELF?

While you value nourishment, you take a dim view of gluttony and may sometimes restrain yourself too much in the area of eating and even be prone to eating disorders. You have a tendency towards a habitual and ritualistic connection with food, focusing on nutrition more than taste and enjoyment. Food can even become boring as a result. You notice details about food and you want them to be perfect.

HOW DO YOU HANDLE MONEY?

You grow wealth skillfully and diligently and you're good at saving. You are frugal with money, at times too much. When you transgress, you do it in a big way, as if the usual vigilance is totally turned off.

YOUR HAVINGNESS BUCKET:

You are naturally frugal and your bucket is small and easily filled up. You may have trouble accepting great wealth should it come to you, because – where would you put it?